Topic of Complex Sentence with Adverb Clause and Adjective Clause.

PART A – ADVERB CLAUSE

1. Explain in your own words what an adverb clause is

An adverb clause is a type of dependent clause that acts like an adverb in a sentence.

It gives more information about a verb, an adjective, or another adverb. It usually tells when, where, why, how, for what purpose, or under what condition something happens. Adverb clauses always start with subordinating conjunctions and can't be used on their own.

2. Explain the difference between the following subordinating conjunctions. Provide one sentence of each.

A. After and Once / as soon as

- After:

Shows that one action happens later than another action.

- Examples:

After he left, I locked the door.

- Once / as soon as:

Shows that one action happens immediately after another action.

- Examples:

As soon as he left, I locked the door.

B. When and Whenever

- When:

Refers to a specific time or moment.

- Examples:

When I arrived, it was raining.

- Whenever:

Means “every time,” used for general or repeated situations.

- Examples:

Whenever I arrive, it always rains.

C. When and By the time

- When:

At the moment something happens.

- Examples:

When I got home, he was cooking.

- By the time:

Shows that something else has been completed earlier.

- Examples:

By the time I got home, he had finished cooking.

D. Because and Now that

- Because:

Gives a simple reason expresses the cause of the action.

- Examples:

I stayed home because I was tired.

- Now that:

Gives a reason based on a new situation or new condition.

- Examples:

Now that I'm rested, I can work again.

E. Even though and Even if

- Even though:

Shows a contrast based on fact. Is used for real situations.

- Examples:

Even though it was raining, they played football.

- Even if:

Shows a contrast based on possibility (hypothetical). Is used for imaginary or possible situations.

- Examples:

Even if it rains tomorrow, we will still play football.

PART B – ADJECTIVE CLAUSE

1. Explain in your own words what an adjective clause is.

An adjective clause is a dependent clause that functions as an adjective. It describes or gives additional information about a noun or pronoun. It usually begins with relative pronouns or relative adverbs.

2. Explain the functions of each relative pronouns (who, whom, which, that, whose) and relative adverbs (where, when, why).

A. Relative Pronouns :

1. WHO – for people (subject role) Who identifies which person is doing the action in the clause.
2. WHOM – for people (object role) Whom is used when the person receives the action in the clause.
3. WHICH – (for things/animals) Which is used to add information about a thing or an animal.
4. THAT – (for people or things) That identifies essential information about a person or a thing.
5. WHOSE – (shows possession) Whose shows that something belongs to the noun mentioned.

B. Relative Adverbs :

1. WHERE – (for places) introduces an adjective clause about a location.
2. WHEN – (for time) introduces a clause about a specific moment in time.
3. WHY – (for reasons) introduces the reason behind an action.

3. Provide one sentence of each.

- Relative Pronouns

1. WHO Examples: The boy who is wearing a hat is my friend.
2. WHOM Examples: The woman whom we met yesterday is a lecturer.
3. WHICH Examples: The laptop which I bought last year is still fast.
4. THAT Examples: The car that he drives is new.
5. WHOSE Examples: The student whose bag was stolen is reporting it.

- Relative Adverbs

1. WHERE Examples: This is the café where we first met.
2. WHEN Examples: 2023 was the year when I graduated from high school.
3. WHY Examples: She finally explained the reason why she was so upset.

4. Explain the definition of essential and non-essential clause.

A. Essential Clause (Restrictive Clause)

- Gives important information that identifies the noun.
- Without it, the meaning becomes unclear.
- No commas are used.

B. Non-essential Clause (Non-restrictive Clause)

- Gives extra information.
- If removed, the sentence still makes sense.
- Uses commas.

5. Provide two sentences of each.

A. Essential Clause Examples:

- The students who study hard get good grades.
- The book that she recommended was very helpful.

B. Non-essential Clause Examples:

- My laptop, which was a gift, is very important to me.
- The laptop, which was a gift, still works well.
